Report of the Board of Governors

The Board of Governors of The Society of the Lying-In Hospital submits herewith its report for the 130th fiscal year of the Society, ending December 31, 1928.

The Board records with sorrow the death since the last report of two of its members, Mr. Elbert H. Gary and Mr. Francis R. Appleton. Both of these gentlemen had been Governors of the Hospital since 1909 and had been deeply interested in its affairs.

In quality and amount the maternity service rendered by the doctors and nurses has equaled the record of preceding years, and the high standard of efficiency which has characterized this service is an eloquent tribute to the ability and devotion of the staff. The educational work conducted by the institution has also continued to be of great significance and value. The details of both of these activities are set forth in the statistics attached to this report. The Governors acknowledge gratefully what has been accomplished by all the members of the medical and hospital staffs. To them are due the admirable results recorded in this report.

The constant aid of the most efficient Ladies' Auxiliary has been of great value, and their continued interest in and devotion to this important branch of the Hospital's work are warmly appreciated by the Governors.

During the year an important agreement was made by the Governors with The Society of the New York Hospital. As a result the Lying-In Hospital will be included in the medical centre of the New York Hospital-Cornell Medical College Association, and as soon as the new buildings are completed will move from its present site to the maternity building at the southwest corner of Seventieth and Exterior Streets. In consideration of the Governors of the Lying-In providing, through generous friends, the cost of this new maternity building and adequate additional endowment for maternity work, the New York Hospital has supplied a site for the building and agreed to erect the building and to operate permanently therein the Lying-In Hospital, including its educational work, to an extent at least equal to its present scale and standard of efficiency. In view of that contract the Governors of the Lying-In Hospital thought it best to resign, and their successors have been elected. These successors will do their best to continue the admirable work, both in hospital operation and medical education, which has been so ably conducted, and to allow no diminution either in the amount or the quality of that work. They feel that the community owes an immense debt to the retiring Governors for their untiring efforts and supreme generosity in making this notable hospital service possible for so many years.

There is interesting historic precedent for this new affiliation between the two Hospitals. The Lying-In Hospital started its work in August 1799 in the house No. 2 Cedar Street, but the income from its funds proving insufficient to maintain a separate hospital, an agreement was made in January 1801 with the New York Hospital, by which that institution was to receive the Lying-In income and to establish and maintain a Lying-In ward in the New York Hospital building on Broadway between Duane and Worth Streets. The Lying-In Governors had free access to the ward and were also given a room for their meetings. This arrangement continued from 1801 to 1827 when the Lying-In ward was closed and the Lying-In Hospital Governors withdrew.

EDWARD W. SHELDON
President.

Medical Report

THE report of the medical and educational activities of the Society of the Lying-In Hospital of the City of New York, from January 1, 1928 to December 31, 1928, inclusive, is herewith submitted.

In all Departments the Society has worked to the full capacity of its resources. Throughout the entire personnel there is evident a spirit of good co-ordination, co-operation and team play, actuated by the endeavor to improve results in the work of the hospital as a whole. A greater service is being rendered than is readily realized, not only to this community but to the nation. It is much to have given thousands of women and their children good obstetrical care. It is far more to have provided practical training for doctors and nurses in this, as yet, too neglected branch of medicine. As these doctors and nurses go out from the training which the Lying-In has given them, they become widely scattered in this and other countries, especially Canada. A considerable number of doctors who began their training in obstetrics with us are professors of this branch in medical schools in different cities; others are heads of or workers in obstetrical departments of hospitals. The nurses become directresses of training schools and supervisors in obstetrical departments. Both doctors and nurses serve not only the poor in their localities but all grades of society. They undoubtedly do much towards raising the standard of care given to patients, and exert no small influence in procuring maternity hospitals and better facilities for teaching, and the home and hospital care of patients during childbirth.

During the past year, five thousand seven hundred and forty-five patients have been treated, not including new born babies and those visiting the dispensary classes. Of these, five thousand were confinements, among whom were many seriously ill and complicated cases such as toxemias, serious cardiac and pulmonary conditions, a few infections and a considerable number who required major operations; and yet, all but twenty-five of these women were discharged from the hospital alive. The various clinics have been well conducted and attended. The Babies' clinic under the direction of Doctor Emelyn L. Coolidge has earned and still deserves highest praise for its life-saving work for babies and the education of mothers. The ante-partum clinics at the substation and at the hospital; the post-partum, gynecological, syphilitic and cardiac clinics are doing good and helpful work and deserve much credit. The training school for nurses, under the direction of L. J. Napier, R. N., is maintained at a high standard of excellence and efficiency. This is a much more difficult thing to accomplish than in a general hospital, owing to the short term of service and frequent changing of graduate and under-graduate pupil nurses; and also to the fact that the service is as active by night as by day, caring for what amounts to emergency cases. The laboratory has maintained its usual standard of good work and reliability. The X-Ray department is undergoing reconstruction, and is being modernized under the direction of Doctor Harry M. Imboden, Roentgenologist to the hospital. Fuller statistics are to be found in the succeeding pages and in the reports of heads of different departments.

Great and rapid progress is being made in teaching and providing facilities for the care of obstetrical patients and yet, there are far too many doctors practising this branch of medicine who do not believe in or do not realize the importance of close supervision of women during pregnancy, and who attend confinements and the after care of such patients in a hurried, careless and surgically unclean manner. As an example of the results of closer supervision, in the eight years from 1914 to 1922, the incidence of convulsions was reduced from 11.4 to 1.6 per thousand cases confined in the Lying-In Hospital by recognition and treatment of the early symptoms of toxemia. These results have been maintained. Other complications have been proportionately reduced by a like course. Such results are being obtained in maternities of the better sort, and in the cases of careful and well equipped private obstetricians. No small factor in arriving at these results is the co-operation of the "instructed" patients who are periodically examined and advised in the ante-partum clinics. These women note the care exercised during labor and the lying-in period, and before leaving the hospital they are given class instruction, thereafter returning to the babies', post-partum and other clinics. They seek this instruction eagerly as something of value to themselves and their children. The under-graduate medical students serve for a period of three weeks, employing their time in ward rounds, delivery and operating rooms, the ante-partum clinics and in the out-door department where they deliver patients under supervision of members of the house staff and attending surgeons. The course for graduate pupils is one entirely of observation, limited according to the wish of the pupil from a few days to several months. Many of these pupils make it a practise to return to the hospital every year or two. The interne staff receives the most valuable training. Appointments are for periods of four months each, except in the case of the house surgeon to the out-door department who serves for six months. Thus, there are two house surgeons appointed each year to the out-door department and six to the in-door department. These men have had from two to three and in some cases four years hospital training prior to their appointment to the Lying-In. These positions are much in demand, and it is conservative to estimate that every year at least two hundred well trained candidates apply for the six places on the in-door staff. Not infrequently all of these vacancies are filled for two or more years in advance. The assistant house surgeons serve for three months in the out-door department and one month in the wards where they receive good training. The requirements as to previous hospital training are not as exacting as in the case of house surgeons, yet many of these assistants have had considerable hospital experience. During the past year the following have availed themselves of this training:

House surgeons	7
(One house surgeon served for two periods)
Assistant house surgeons	37
Graduate students	58
Under-graduate students	100
Graduate and pupil nurses	192

The attending staff is made up of nine attending surgeons, one adjunct attending and a chief surgeon. All but one of the above have, in years gone by, served as house surgeons in this hospital. Several are rather young in years of service on the attending staff, the others have for many years been caring for large numbers of normal and abnormal obstetrical patients and demonstrating this work for doctors and nurses. It is not for us to speak of the character of work and results obtained in the Lying-In—they must speak for themselves. We can, however, state with assurance that there is no other group of attending surgeons of like number in America, possibly not anywhere, who have had and continue to have such opportunities to acquire experience, trained judgment and operative skill in clinical obstetrics. These men are working together loyally and with enthusiastic and sustained effort.

In February, 1923, the development of obstetric analgesia was begun at the Lying-In Hospital and has been in constant use up to the present time in suitable cases, having been employed in some twelve thousand instances, leaving no doubt that it is safe for mother and child and of great value. We must believe from frequent letters and verbal reports that this method is being employed more widely and with increasing satisfaction by those who are responsible for the care of women in childbirth. It has met with adverse criticism and some opposition. Any radical change that is worth while has been treated in the same way. It is not perfection but it is progress. Not long since, eight patients were seen in two rooms in the hospital in different stages of progressing labor. No out-cry was heard. They were being treated with analgesia and at least relieved of much of their pain. We know of no other safe method of treating such patients which will produce like results.

The Ladies' Auxiliary continues its helpful work in providing means for carrying on the Babies' clinic with its nurses; scrub women who are employed cleaning up homes in the out-door department when mothers are confined to bed, and providing clothing for those in need. Through the social service worker, patients are followed up after they cease to require obstetrical care, and where necessary, mothers and children are placed in homes or suitable institutions. Further details of the work of the Ladies' Auxiliary will be found in the reports of the various committees.

In the merging of the Lying-In and New York Hospitals there has come a readjustment in the Board of Governors of the former. As this change took place, and it was realized that the men who had given of their time, ripened experience, means and sympathetic, helpful care for years in carrying on this work, were to give place for others, we could not escape a poignant sense of loss. The present board, all Governors of New York Hospital—men of affairs with long experience in hospital management have assumed their duties and are giving assistance and support in a way that is very much appreciated. The Governors' fiscal and executive representative, the medical superintendent, a one time interne of the hospital, is worthy of special mention. His knowledge of medicine, long years of service in the hospital, his acquaintance with the details of its history and those who have been connected with it; his close touch with the work and his experience have made him a valued officer, co-worker and counselor.

ASA B. DAVIS, M. D.
Chief Surgeon.

Report of Nurses' Training School

More students were admitted to the Lying-In Hospital during the year 1928 than during the previous year, in spite of the fact that two schools discontinued affiliations. Several schools sent their pupils very irregularly because of the shortage of third year pupils, illness, etc. One school discontinued affiliation because of the opening of an Obstetrical Department of their own, the second because this hospital allows no remuneration to the affiliating nurse.

The student classes on the whole have been larger, the Post-Graduate applicants have increased. It is interesting to note the number of Post-Graduate students who have been sent to us from General Hospitals with the understanding that they will return as supervisors in their own Obstetrical Departments. It has been our privilege, on completion of their courses, to place a number of our graduate students in hospital positions. There has been a noted increase in the number of recent graduates in the private duty field of Obstetrics.

We have put much thought and effort into the revision of our Curriculum and teaching methods. The suggestions and co-operation of our Staff of Lecturers, the support and encouragement of our Chief Surgeon and Supervising Nurses in the improvement of our nursing technique are fully appreciated. Without this interest and co-operation, advancement in this work would be impossible.

Supervisors' Staff meetings have been held monthly, at which the nursing problems of the hospital have been discussed with much interest. The result of these meetings has been most gratifying. Most helpful suggestions for the improvement of our services have been offered and better co-operation between departments has been secured.

We believe the opportunity in our Out-Patient Department for nursing in the homes of patients has been invaluable for our students. While the amount of work done has been less than last year, we believe the quality has improved.

REPORT OF THE BABIES' CLINIC

Number of former patients treated at the Clinic	9,480
Number of New Patients	2,881
Total number treated during the year	12,361
Total number of visits made by the Babies' Clinic nurses to babies in their own homes	2,978

On the whole the year 1928 has been a good one for babies. We have not had so many seriously ill babies as usual, this with the fact that we now charge a small fee for treatment, accounts for the slightly lower figures given above.

Many of the poorer classes of New York families, are moving into the suburbs, as they can take advantage of the very moderate rentals and easy payment plans to purchase homes there, that are now being offered to them. Some years ago this class of people could not be induced to leave New York City, no matter how small and uncomfortable their homes might be. Now they are fast becoming educated to the fact that fresh air and sunshine mean everything to their babies and they are willing to go where these can be obtained. They have heard so much about rickets and the necessity of sun baths and fresh air for the prevention and cure of this disease that they welcome the opportunity the cheaper real estate developments give them, to bring their babies up in the sunshine out of the crowded city. We have patients who come to our Babies' Clinic from many of these suburban places, but naturally they cannot come quite as often as if they lived nearer by.

We had two special vaccination classes this year and vaccinated 188 babies for smallpox. The toxin-antitoxin for preventing Diphtheria is given regularly each session the Clinic is held.

The Ultra-Violet ray lamp has been used regularly except during the warmest months. The sun is then considered enough as a preventive and curative agent for the average case of rickets. Mothers are instructed how to give sunbaths out of doors as long as the weather permits.

We have given free milk, free ice and trips into the country or to the seashore as usual this past year to mothers having babies who need this special help and cannot obtain it otherwise.

Several Volunteer workers have greatly assisted us in taking histories, interpreting and giving the violet ray treatments under the supervision of one of our doctors. We are very grateful to them for this help.

(Signed) EMELYN L. COOLIDGE, M. D.
Pediatrician and Chief of the Babies' Clinic.

REPORT OF IN-PATIENTS' COMMITTEE

(Com. I)

November 13th, 1927—November 17th, 1928

In the year just completed this committee proposes to give a brief resumé of its activities during this time, mentioning some of the difficulties encountered as well as results achieved.

Through the courtesy of co-operating agencies we have been able to give excellent care to 187 patients.

Eighty-one women were placed in homes after their discharge from hospital.

There were about 1, 172 ward rounds made and 1,501 office interviews.

604 cases have come under our care—126 unmarried—118 deserted or separated—351 married—9 widows.

Another great demand upon this department is the temporary placement of children during the mothers' stay at the hospital, as it is difficult to ascertain the exact time of confinement, but which has been successfully dealt with through the immediate help of the Children's Welfare Federation.

The unmarried mother is still a difficult problem as it is not easy to secure reliable information both from the girl and her family. It requires the use of the utmost caution to safeguard their best interests.

The question of when an unmarried mother shall keep her baby and when it shall be given up has been and still will be a most difficult one which only can be solved upon an individual consideration of each and every case. This we have been able to care for satisfactorily through the co-operation of various agencies with follow up work, and every effort is made to keep the babies with their mothers.

Representative Cases

Patient 1. C. C., age 22 years, unmarried. Girl seemed fond of her baby but was influenced by her mother who advised her to surrender the child for adoption. Girl's step-father was willing to have her return home without the baby. On the advice of a Psychologist who said girl is a Dull Normal with a Mental age 13, the baby was placed at board and girl went to her own home. After a rest she returned to her former place of employment where she had worked as a file clerk for seven years. Girl was given about a month to make up her mind as to what she wished to do about the child. She decided she would like to keep in touch with him. An effort was made to locate the father of the child without success. Through the Department of Public Welfare the baby was placed in a private boarding home where he is at present. Girl visits him twice a month. He is having good care and is a good natured, attractive baby. He has made a slow steady gain and is normal weight. A nurse visits him once a week. His mother hopes to be able to take him home when he is older.

Patient 2. A. M., age 24 years, unmarried, discharged to State Charities Aid. Girl very anxious to surrender her baby for adoption. She however, consented to remain with the child until they were both stronger. She took care of her and each day became more interested. She was homesick for her family but could not take her baby home. Although she had given a history of marriage she admitted after a few days that it was false. Mother and baby were sent to the country and while there girl communicated with her family and told them about her child. Her brother and sister called immediately to see her and assured her that they all wanted her at home. After two months she returned home and the baby was placed in a nearby nursery where mother visited several times a week. When the child was 10 months old she was taken home where she now is the pet of the grandparents and several uncles and aunts. Girl has returned to her former employment as saleswoman in a dress shop. The baby is bright and attractive and is normal weight. Both mother and baby are in good physical condition.

Patient 3. M. B. age 20 years, unmarried. Girl very anxious to keep baby and plan made where this could be accomplished. After discharge from hospital both mother and baby placed in temporary shelter. Girl secured position and the baby cared for during the day in the nursery of the shelter. This plan enabled the girl to have her baby during the night and on Saturday afternoons and Sundays. She took a great interest in her baby and gave him good care. He was nursed for six weeks. When he was about 5 months old he had an intestinal disturbance and was a patient at St. Luke's Hospital. He had one transfusion. When discharged he was placed in a private boarding home where he had special care until he returned to his mother in about five weeks time. He made a rapid recovery from his illness. He is a bright, happy baby, and in good physical condition.

In November, 1928, Bertha Ludwigsen, who did the cutting and sorting of garments, for this Committee, was taken seriously ill. When it became apparent that she would be unable to continue her work, the Committee recommended to the Board that some appreciation of her long and faithful service to the Hospital and to the Auxiliary be shown. The Board accordingly voted that a small pension be paid her monthly until further action of the Board.

Respectfully submitted,

Doris Dixon.

REPORT OF THE WAYS AND MEANS COMMITTEE

During the year 1927 it was suggested that various members of the Ladies' Auxiliary would be glad to pledge themselves to give annually amounts larger than the ten dollars membership dues, and that if other classes of membership were created with this idea in view, the income from dues would be materially increased.

Accordingly, the classes

Patron.....	with annual dues of	$100
Associate Member . . .	with annual dues of	50
Contributing Member	with annual dues of	25
Sustaining Member . .	with annual dues of	10 were created, and a notice to this effect was sent out with the notice for the dues of the year 1928.

The response was most gratifying. 11 members became Patrons, 5 Associate, and 19 Contributing, thus adding $1475 to the annual income from dues of the Ladies' Auxiliary.

Respectfully submitted,

HELEN PORTER PRYIBIL, Chairman.
